SCHOOL OF DEVELOPMENT STUDIES

UNIVERSITY OF EAST ANGLIA, NORWICH, NR4 7TJ, ENGLAND

DEV NOTES AND NEWS

The School of Development Studies (DEV) was founded in 1973, based on the Overseas Development Group (ODG) which was part of the School of Social Studies for the six years prior to 1973.

Most of the teaching staff are members of both DEV and the ODG, spending one-third of their time on research, practical consultancy, and advisory and training work for the ODG, mainly overseas. It is through this combination of teaching and practical work that the School can bring to its publications up-to-date information and practical experience of development problems and processes.

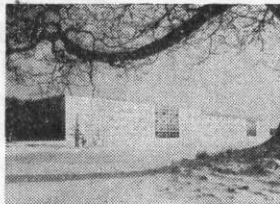

Last Autumn DEV Publications embarked upon a policy of expansion, greatly increasing the number of Discussion Papers, Reprints and Monographs, and creating two NEW SERIES: Occasional Papers and Manuals and Reports. There are now in excess of 70 Reprints, and 50 Discussion Papers, each series being expected to increase at the rate of 15 new publications per annum, and covering a wide range of development topics.

MANUALS AND REPORTS

'Manuals' refers to training and teaching manuals prepared for use within the University, or for outside agencies.

'Reports' have been prepared for international institutions and similar bodies. (Permission for wider distributions has been obtained.)

OCCASIONAL PAPERS

Occasional Papers are somewhat longer pieces of work than Discussion Papers of article length. Though not as substantial as the Monographs, they may be subdivided into several chapters.

G. COLEMAN, International Labour Migration from Malawi (1979). (This is a paper bringing together articles reprinted from several journals.)

MONOGRAPHS

The principal purpose of the Monograph series is to make available, at a reasonable cost, to individuals and institutions working in related fields (1) the substantive results of research carried out in the School of Development Studies, and (2) detailed treatment of a common set of issues or problems.

The following are new monographs at present in press (Advance orders are welcomed).

MG3. JOHN HARRISS, Capitalism and Peasant Farming: A Study of Agricultural Change and Agrarian Structure in Northern Tamil Nadu, India (1979)

MG4. C. D. SCOTT, Machetes, Machines and Agrarian Reform: The Political Economy of Technical Choice in the Peruvian Sugar Industry, 1954-74 (1979)

MG5. BLAIKIE, CAMERON & SEDDON, Centre, Periphery and Access in West Central Nepal: Approaches to Social and Spatial Relations of Inequality.

All publications are available on request from the School Publications Secretary (LS2). Postage to UK addresses is free, to addresses outside the UK there is a postage charge to cover air or surface mail costs; unless otherwise requested all publications will be sent surface mail (with possible delivery period of up to three months). Please do NOT send remittance with order.
