Bibliography

Chronic Poverty Advisory Network

CPAN is a network of researchers, policy makers and practitioners across 15 developing countries (Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Cambodia, Ethiopia, India, Kenya, Malawi, Nepal, Niger, Nigeria, Philippines, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, Zimbabwe) focused on tackling chronic poverty and getting to zero extreme poverty and deprivation, and by sustaining escapes from poverty and preventing impoverishment. It is looking to expand this network to the 30 countries with the largest numbers of people in poverty. It has a 'hub', which is currently hosted by the Institute of Development Studies in the United Kingdom.

Acknowledgements

We acknowledge the financial support and intellectual environment of the Covid Collective, convened by the Institute of Development Studies (IDS) and financially supported by Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office's (FCDO) Research and Evidence Division as a social science contribution to the pandemic. The support of Peter Taylor, Director of Research at IDS is specifically appreciated, as well as all the Covid Collective colleagues who attended meetings and discussions during the pandemic.

A number of reviewers have contributed significantly to improving the report, and we thank them for their considerable efforts. These include: Greg Collins, Tim Conway, Lucia Dacorta, Sonal Desai, Toby Green, Vivian Kazi, Oswald Mashindano, Katie Peters, José-Manuel Roche, and Keetie Roelen.

The authors would also like to express appreciation to all the CPAN partners who contributed to Bulletins for the CPAN Covid-19 Poverty Monitoring Initiative which produced as near as possible real-time information to be available to decision-makers during the pandemic, based on re-interviewing life history and other respondents from pre-pandemic qualitative research. This was an attempt to provide lived experiences to complement the data from High Frequency Phone Surveys and other sources during the pandemic.

Of course, responsibility for the contents of the report rests with the authors, and the report does not represent the views of IDS, the Covid Collective, or of FCDO.
