

Notes on Contributors

Sri Adiningsih is Head of the Asia Pacific Studies Center, Gadjah Mada University, and also a senior lecturer at Faculty of Economics Gadjah Mada University. She obtained her Bachelor in Economics from Gadjah Mada University in 1985. Her Master and PhD degree were obtained from University of Illinois-USA in 1989 and 1996. She was also Secretary of Constitution Committee of People Consultative Assembly or MPR RI (2003–4), Independent Commissioner and Chairwoman/member of Auditing Committee of Bank Danamon (2002–5), team member Economic Advisor of Government for Indonesia–Japan Economic Relations (2002–4), Ombudsman at Indonesian Banking Restructuring Agency (2001–3), and Chairwoman of Economic Department Graduate Programme, Gadjah Mada University (1996–2000).

Serey Chea is currently the Deputy Director of the Banking Supervision Department at the National Bank of Cambodia. She is also Editor in Chief of the Bank Supervision Annual Report. In addition, she is a member of the ASEAN and ASEAN+3 Financial Cooperation Working Group. Ms Chea graduated from Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand.

Margarita Debuque-Gonzales is a graduate from the University of the Philippines and in 2007 received the PhD degree in Economics from the same university. While in graduate school, she worked as a journalist for the Philippine Daily Inquirer, the Philippines' most widely read newspaper which was born out of the opposition to the martial law regime. In this capacity, she won several prestigious prizes for excellence in journalism, part of which included the opportunity to attend a short programme at Columbia University's School of Journalism. She has worked as a consultant at the Asian Development Bank and several non-governmental organisations.

Maria Socorro Gochoco-Bautista is Rosa Alvero Professor of Economics at the University of the Philippines School of Economics. She was also previously a Senior Research Fellow at the Bank for International Settlements Representative Office for Asia and the Pacific in Hong Kong, where her research focused on the risks of tail events occurring as a consequence of asset price booms. She is the incoming chair of the Asian Shadow Financial Regulatory Committee, a group of academics that study issues relevant to the supervision of banks and financial institutions. Her fields of interest are open economy macroeconomics and monetary economics. She has published in journals such as the Journal of Money, Credit and Banking, Economics Letters, Journal of Macroeconomics and The Manchester Journal, among others.

Ricardo Gottschalk is a Research Fellow of the Institute of Development Studies. Currently working on capital flows to developing countries; reform of the international financial architecture (including implementation of codes and standards in developing countries); the sequencing of capital account liberalisation; China's impacts on other developing countries and their macroeconomic policy responses. He has worked as consultant to the European Commission, G-24, UNCTAD and the governments of various sub-Saharan African countries, and at present provides technical assistance to the Ethiopian government on macro-econometric modelling and forecasting.

Stephany Griffith-Jones is Professorial Fellow at the Institute of Development Studies. She holds a PhD in economics from Cambridge University. Previously she has worked at the Central Bank of Chile, Barclays Bank International in the UK, the Commonwealth Secretariat and United Nations Department of Social and Economic Affairs (UNDESA). Her fields of research and consultancy include global capital flows and their macroeconomic management and reform of the international financial system. She has been a Senior Consultant to the World Bank, European Commission, Inter-American Development Bank (IADB), the Brazilian Presidency, the Czech Central Bank and many others. Currently she is working on a UNDESA project on GDP-Linked Bonds.

Azidin Wan Abdul Kadir is a Research Fellow with the Malaysian Institute of Economic Research (MIER). He is attached to the Macroeconomic Trends and Forecasting Division and has been involved in a number of research projects and studies for the public and private sectors.

Le Xuan Sang is currently an editor of Vietnam Economic Management Review of the Central Institute for Economic Management (CIEM). He got the degree of PhD in economics from the Moscow National University, Russian Federation. His interest research fields include financial market, trade policy and economic integration, and small- and medium-sized enterprises.

Sarat Ouk is currently an expert of the Banking Supervision Department at the National Bank of Cambodia. He obtained the degrees of master of finance from the National University of Management, Cambodia and master of economics of development from the Australian National University (ANU).

Yung Chul Park is Research Professor and Director of the Center for International Commerce and Finance at the Graduate School of International Studies, Seoul National University. He served as co-chairman of the Government of Korea's Public Fund Oversight Committee until August, 2006. He was a member of the National Economic Advisory Council (2003–4), Ambassador for the International Economy and Trade, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade (2001–2), and chairman of the board for the Korea Exchange Bank (1999–2001). He previously served as the Chief Economic Adviser to the President of Korea (1987–8), as President of the Korea Development Institute (1986–7), as President of the Korea Institute of Finance (1992–8), and as a member of the Central Bank of Korea's Monetary Board (1984–6). He also worked for the International Monetary Fund (1968–74).

Ammar Siamwalla has a BSc in Economics from the University of London, and a PhD in Economics from Harvard University. He has worked as Assistant Professor and Research Staff Economist at the Department of Economics, Yale University; and was Former Lecturer at the Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University. He was a Visiting Professor at the Food Research Institute, Stanford University; and Research Fellow with the International Food Policy Research Institute (1978–84) in Washington DC. He was former Program Director for Agriculture and Rural Development at the Thai Development Research Institute (TDRI); and is Former President of the TDRI.

Vo Tri Thanh is currently the Director of the Department for International Integration Studies at the Central Institute for Economic Management (CIEM), Hanoi, Vietnam. Mr Vo has a PhD in economics from the Australian National University (ANU). He has undertaken extensive research on macroeconomics, financial systems, and trade liberalisation and international integration.

Charles Wyplosz is Professor of International Economics at the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva where he is Director of the International Centre for Money and Banking Studies. Previously, he has served as Associate Dean for Research and Development at INSEAD and Director of the PhD programme in Economics at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Science Sociales in Paris. He also has been Director of the International Macroeconomics Programme of Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR), the leading European network of economists. His main research areas include financial crises, European monetary integration, fiscal policy, economic transition and current regional integration in various parts of the world.

Yu Yongding is an Academician of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS), the Director-General of Institute of World Economics and Politics (IWEP) (1998–) and the President of the China Society of the World Economics (2001–). He was formerly the academic member of the Monetary Policy Committee of the People's Bank of China. Yu Yongding joined the Institute of World Economics, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in 1979. He received an MA in economics from the Graduate School of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences and DPhil in economics from the University of Oxford. His main research interests are macroeconomics and world economics.